PLANTING AND CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

PEONIES — Important — Open your package of roots immediately when they arrive. Plant as soon as possible but if you have to wait a few days, either keep moist in open box in cool cellar, or better yet, bury in garden.

Plant Peonies in good, well drained soil, in full sun if possible, and away from trees, buildings, etc. Do not plant where a peony has been before, unless all old soil is taken out and replaced with fresh. Plant 3 to 4 feet apart; set so that the eyes point upward and are 2 to 3 inches below the top of ground (very important). Give each root 2 quarts of water when planted, and then make a 6 inch mound of dirt above ground level to prevent heaving, scrape mound away late next spring.

In northern states, a mulch the first winter is advisable.

Fall is the natural planting time for Peonies. (After Sept. 1st and before Nov. 1st if possible). Spring planting is possible but is not recommended. Never move an old clump without dividing it. Never dig out a piece of a clump with a spade. This invites decay in the part left. Peonies do not need to be divided and re-set so long as they bloom well, unless increase is desired. For increase, divide at 3, 4 or 5 years, in the fall.

Peonies need their full space of 3 to 4 feet in all directions. Do not crowd smaller perennials among them unless extra room is given. Only shallow cultivation is needed, to keep down weeds and grass. Use fertilizers sparingly, bone meal one year, hard wood ashes the next, two handfuls per large plant worked in topsoil six inches from the stems. The use of animal fertilizer is dangerous, as the bacteria of decay which makes it valuable, may also in time attack the Peony root and cause a damaging rot. The use of balanced commercial fertilizers is not recommended as a general practice, as they contain too much nitrogen. If soil is naturally very poor, sandy or gravelly, commercial fertilizer may be used sparingly, taking care to apply it when ground is wet, and watering enough to prevent burning. Keep it away from the stems.

Watering during dry summers, and just before blooming is beneficial. Give a thorough soaking with two gallons or more of water once every week or ten days, not oftener. Daily watering or sprinkling is injurious. After October 1st, cut off all foliage close to the ground, and burn at once. This is the best preventive measure against blight, and usually the only one necessary. Should blight appear in spring, before blooming, pinch out and burn all diseased tissue at once, and spray with weak Bordeaux, in proportions of 1 to 2 pounds of bluestone and $\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 pounds of hydrated lime to 50 gallons of water. To obtain large blooms, remove all side buds when they are the size of small hazelnuts. To obtain a fine cluster, pinch out the large center bud. Blooms cut before half open and brought indoors will show finer color and last longer than blooms left on the plant or cut when fully open. When cutting blooms, let two or three leaves remain on every stub of the stalks. Do not cut more than half or two-thirds of the blooms. A late freeze in spring sometimes causes buds to blast.

Ants do no damage except to carry blight (if present) or if very numerous. Find their nests and poison or scald them out.

A ten foot length of two inch diamond mesh chicken wire, two feet high, looped loosely about the plant just before blooming, makes an unequalled support, and is inexpensive. It can be removed immediately the bloom is done. Most Peony supports are too small, squeeze the foliage too close, and invite blight.

Plant the healthy, fresh dug roots, follow above directions carefully, and you should have many years of pleasure from your Peonies.

IRIS PLANTING INSTRUCTIONS

Iris prefer a loamy soil of medium richness but they grow well in almost any non-acid ground. If the drainage is poor the beds should be raised and a little lime added will make for better drainage and prevent the grounds souring.

The safest fertilizer to use is bonemeal and when used should be applied sparingly and well mixed with the soil.

In the Chicago area Iris can be planted from the end of the blooming period throughout September. The later in the season, the longer the anchor roots.

To be properly planted the rhizome or fleshy part of the Iris should be exposed to the sun with the long feeding roots well anchored in the ground. For clump arrangement, plant three roots in a triangular form about 12" apart with the fans to the outside of the angles.

A new set of feeding roots will develop from the rhizome after transplanting and therefore should not be moved more than once per year. Annual moving is recommended as a control of Iris borer, the only pest which bothers Iris.

Clean cultivation, removing and burning all old fans after frost will also do much to destroy borer eggs which carry over and hatch the following year.

In early stages, Iris borers may be recognized by the bleeding of the plant which shows between the folds of the leaves as a wet stain. By squeezing all leaves showing the stain firmly, from the base upward between the thumb and forefinger, the young borer is killed without resultant injury to the plant.
